Quality culture through effective instruments for teachers and trainers

- > VET teachers, trainers, quality staff and mentors
- > Toolkit and practical guide for improving quality in education
- > Quality culture

What is QUAL4T?

The QUAL4T project, and its seven European partners, aims to provide teachers and trainers with materials to improve quality in education.

We aim to:

- > Develop a quality improvement culture in line with the VET recommendations, where teachers and trainers are active players
- > Share quality instruments and best practices
- > Connect management and teachers through the management brochure
- > Provide a toolkit and a practical guide in six languages, with ready to use instruments for teachers, trainers, quality staff and mentors to improve learners' outcomes

Background

When asked, teachers say that it is hard for them to feel (and get) involved in quality processes that they do not influence. We want to involve them in what they DO feel they can influence: by addressing their professional skills; by turning paper into action; by focusing on teaching and learning processes; and, by building toolkit instruments that can be easily used for quality improvement. Above all, we aim to build a positive attitude towards quality improvement. From previous experience we know this method works!

What are the main outcomes of the project?

The main outcomes can be summarized as:

- > A website
- > A teacher guide
- > A toolkit for teachers and quality staff

The intangible outcome is the creation of a quality culture that includes learners and teachers. It will bring transparency, mutual trust and cooperation, an improvement in VET education in general, and ultimately an improvement in the skills of the European workforce.

Who can benefit from QUAL4T products?

The toolkit and practical guide are intended for:

- > teachers and trainers
- > quality staff members
- > managers in training organisations

The outcomes of our project can be used in all sectors, EQF-levels and curriculum areas of vocational education and training.
